

HD Clinicians Group starts work

The first meeting of the Renal Agency's newly formed Hemodialysis Clinicians' Group was held in May. Chaired by Victoria nephrologist Dr. John Antonsen, the group is responsible for developing a standard, province-wide approach to HD care based on best practice.

The HD Clinicians' Group is comprised of members from all relevant care professions and with representatives from every health authority renal program.

Among its deliverables over the next 18 months, the group will develop clinical care indicators for monitoring key outcomes related to HD care across the province. It will also review the need for evidence-based, outcomes-focused and patient-centred guidelines for HD care in BC. For more information, contact the BC Renal Agency office.
